24,780 bales were American. Estimating the total week-ly consumption in 1846, at 32,560 bales, of which 27,866 bales America, the stock on hand the 31st Decem-ber, 1845, would have been equal to about 32 weeks cor-sumption. Of the 1,574,670 bales of cotton consumed in Britain in 1845, 1,288,590 were American descrip-

On the whole, the cotton business this year, both at home and abroad, bids fair to be highly healthy and profitable. A very large demand is anticipated in Great Britain for cotton manufactures from the East, ensuring a large consumption, and a good trade. It is articipated that speculators will hardly make their appearance until quite late in the season, when there may be some advance in quotations. It is confidently predicted that prices have touched botton for this year. A decline seems to be considered, by every one, out of the ques-tion; but whether or not any material advance will be experienced, depends so much upon contingencies, that it is difficult to arrive at any conclusion.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

THE subscriber, who exhibited at the late Fair of the Americal Institute, the much admired diplay of choice Primery and Toilet Soaps, and who was there are about the month of the primer of the America. He would remark that his Perfumery has the great advantage over the foreign of being freshly prepared, and that the unequalled opportunities he enjoyed of learning his art in the Laboratory of Laugier Pere et Fils, of which he was for many years the director, guarantees his possession of a skill equal to that of any European Perfumer.

A complete assortment of choice articles of the most celevated foreign houses, will at all times be kept on hand, thus enabling his customers to compare and to choose, and he has also imported from Paris a beautiful assortment of FANCY ARTICLES, suitable for the app oaching holidays.

Thesubscriber does not advertise Soap which will change deformity into beauty, and old age into youth, or Fomatums which will possess the transcendent virtue of creating heat, so careful as not to eadanger the peculiar organization, in virtue of which it differs from other substances of a similar character.

For the quality of his goods, he can refer to Messrs. Aspinwall, Milhau, Chitton, and many others of the most respectable chemists of this city, who for the last several years have vended articles of his manufacture.

Finally, everything at his store will be as represented, and if any article does not give full satisfaction, it will not only willingly, but also thankfully be taken back. The subscriber is anxious to acquire for his establishment a character for veracity and good fath, when, from the nature of the articles, there is so much room for misrepresentation, and he enjoins it upon all in his employ to maintain the same adherence to truth and good fath. A call is most respectfully solicited.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE BY THE MAILS.

Our accounts last night from Washington, are of all kinds—that there is to be a re-construction of the Cabinet—that Mr. Buchanan goes upon the bench—that Mr Bancroft goes to Berlin—that Mr. Walker goes into the Foreign Department of State—that there is a serious break up in the party—that Mr. Calhoun is the "star of the ascendant," and that General Cass and the war party are in the dumps. With respect to Mexican news, accounts differ— One says that Paredes will receive Mr. Slidell another, that he will not-a third, that the Presiden and Cabinet have resolved to make Mexico negotiate and settle the business, or the "Army of Observation" will cross the Rio Grande, and compel her to do so. All is peace about Oregon—all is excitement about Mexico, the Cabinet, and the rejection of Judge Woodward.

Mexican Intelligence. The Washington Union of the 24th inst., gives

The Washington Union of the 24th list, gives the following intelligence from Mexico:

By the arrival on the 14th instant, of the United States brig Porpoise, at Pensacola, (twelve days from Vera Cruz.) the intelligence of a revolution in Mexico has been confirmed.

It appears, that on the morning of the 30th, the troops relied upon by the Government to defend it against Paredes, pronounced in his favor; and the Government entered into terms of capitulation with General Pared-s. He entered and took possession of the city on that day without opposition.

Spain-"Balance of Power"-Critical State of Affairs.

heard their opinions, war men and anti-war men, democrats and whigs, men, women and children, native and adopted, white, dappled and black, every living soul, is delighted with the pacific indications from England. We received the news yesterday by telegraph at the capitol about 3 o'clock, and the evening train brought us an extra Baltimore Sum with the good news itself of the healthy and antirabid tone of the British press and government. We await the ample compilation of the extra Herald You can't make it too voluminous.

The Oregon notice will probably be resumed tomorrow in the House. Mr. Pendleton (the lone Whig star of Virginia) having the floor. We expect a great speech, adapted to the news by the Hibernia. We expect the arrival of Mr. Slidell every day now. Indeed, if he manages his return as adroity as he did his departure, we should hesitate to bet that he was not now in the city. If he can only remain in Mexico antil Paredes shall have fairly established his administration, he might yet succeed in buying the peace of that government, the boundary of the Rio Grande, and a segment of Northern California. But there is something remarkably ominous in that fleet of Spanish men-of-warnow in the Gulf. Taken in conjunction with the return to that latitude of "the man in the white hat," and with the alleged collusions between France and Spain to the establishment of a branch of the Bourbons in Mexico, and also with the reputed correspondence kept up between Santa Anna and his agents, at Vera Cruz, and in the Mexican capital, and thence between this same Santa Anna and the Court of Madrid, it may be safely concluded that this maritime demonstration of the Don Jehns or Demi-Johns before the doors of our unlucky neighbor, is a bona fide descent of one or more of the European powers upon Mexico, with the lorgone intent of correcting the "balance of power upon this continent," according to the programme of Monsiur Guizot. With this view of these transactions, the ten war steamers of Mr. Fairfield will, perhaps, be required off the coast of Texas as soon as they can be brought into service, if not sooner. Should it be affirmed and established that Santa Anna has succeeded in selling his country to Spain and France, and the man in the light-colored sombrero known as the Oregon territory.

mise upon the mise upon the

We are in the midst of the greatest events. They are down upon us like an avalanche, and we must stand upon our dignity, upon our prudence, upon our firmness, and upon the principle of self-preservation; but this is not to be done by a declaration of war against all Europe, nor by the forcible expulsion of the Hudson's Bay Company from the Oregon territory.

the Hudson's Bay Company from the Oregon tenttory.

We have great faith in the President. We believe he has the foresight and that cautious deliberation necessary for the crisis, and that spirit of prompt action that ever results from calm reflection and just decisions.

We shall look into this subject more elaborately in a day or two. At present there appear to be no serious apprehensions in regard to Mexican affairs, so completely is the public mind absorbed in digesting
the pacific news from England.

Washington, Jan. 25, 1846.

Mr. Buchanan's Ball and Banquet.

Mr. Buchanan takes the premium. He is fairly entitled to the banner. Not even the ten dollar inauguration ball at Carusi's saloon, in March last, was more brilliant than Mr. Buchannan's at the same place, last evening. It was a bumper-the house was crammed full by the upper ten thousand, including a condimental pepper and salt sprinkling of the sixpennies. It was a magnificent affair. The name of Mr. Buchanan was a voucher that could not be questioned;—hence, everybody of the twelve or fifteen hundred invited, went over; and not a few of the extremely fashionable, by going fashionably late, had to come away, not because the door was shut, but because the house was full.

The President, and most of his family, the cabinet, the corps diplomatique, the army and navy, the corporation, the Congress, &c., &c.—such a lot of stipendaries upon the charity of the masses, we never saw collected together in that saloon before.

And in the name of Venus, Juno, Minerva, Hebe, Pacyche, (sweet Pacyche) Helen, Sappho, Lucretia, Pseyche, (sweet Pseyche) Helen, Sappho, Lucretia, Cleopatra, Roxana, Ariadne, Diana, Andromache, the Queen of Sheba, the Queen of Granada, Maria Antonette, the Lady Jane, and the Scottish Mary, and Josephine, and Pocahontas—in the name of all these ladies, we protest that the assemblage of beauty collected around the brave diplomatist, Mr. Buchanan, last night, was enough to dazzle his eyes, so far as to reduce him to the necessity of wearing green perifocal spectacles this morning. And the Secretary of State, with his fine, portly, commanding figure, and clear benificent countenance, and spotless white cavat, and with his head occasionally diverging to an angle of 49 degrees, the compromise angle of the Oregon boundary, how pleasant he did look. Didn't he though? He didn't look anything else—he didn't. A capital countenance has the Secretary of State—he is actually a handsome and most bland and engaging looking old bachelor, he is. We like him—everybody who knows Mr. Buchasan likes him: it cannot be helped. And M. de Bodisco, he is entirely of another style of beauty—that is, the true Siberian style. His moustache is an imperial moustache—there is something of imperial pre-eminence about that moustache—of royal supremacy. And a smidemanting from under that moustache cannot but remind you of a glimpse of the morn through a canebrake. He is a great man, notwithstanding, a diplomatist, a baron, a man of information, courtly courtesy and gentlemanty suavity; but he must look out for his master's patrimony on the Pacific. Cleopatra, Roxana, Ariadne, Diana, Andromache,
